

Arc Family Advocacy Program

Meeting with Congressman Hanna

Arc CEO, Karen Korotzer, and members of The Arc's Family Advocacy group, met with Congressman Richard Hanna, to discuss issues affecting The Arc, and people we support. The advocates expressed the need for Federal Medicaid support to help fund wage increases for the hard working, dedicated staff at The Arc, as well as the need for person-centered planning for all people we support; especially those in facility based settings. Aging parents, and families with adult children with disabilities need to have more residential options for their loved ones, and that too was discussed at this important meeting. The Arc would like to thank the Congressman for taking time out his schedule to sit down and have an open dialogue with us. Congressman Hanna has been supportive of our mission during his tenure as our representative and we look forward to continued advocacy efforts with the next U.S. Representative for the 22nd Congressional District, as well as other elected officials.
